Whether you are considering non-rev travel or purchasing a confirmed ticket, rest assured that the journey is incredibly convenient with several non-stop and direct flight routes to choose from.

Philippines and United Airlines offer a decent range of non-stop routes available from the US to Manila. With the added convenience of a larger network of direct flights, you will have ample choices to tailor your journey according to your preferences.

Our eyes are primarily on either Los Angeles or San Francisco as our hub to Manila. However, the final selection of the official group route will be contingent on the fare options that are available at the time of booking.
